A refreshing start to 2013 comes in the form of Mixed Display, an exciting annual “snap-shot” of the very latest developments within Marsden Woo Gallery’s unique creative network.

Comprising the entire gallery, including our downstairs Project Space and rear basement display area, this diverse and stimulating exhibition will present brand new work by each of our gallery artists...

...alongside contributions from a selection of exceptionally talented associated artists. This will include; the delicately inquisitive metalwork of Maria Militsi; playful sculptural works by Tony Hayward, Tom Foulsham, Rupert Ackroyd and Owen Bullet and site-responsive installation by Alida Sayer and Patrick Mifsud. Ceramic pieces by Lawson Oyekean, Stephnie Bergman and James Evans will also feature, with painting by Jacqueline Poncelet and Bryan Illsley, photography by Philip Sayer and ground-breaking product design by Silo Studio.

This is a rare opportunity to encounter previously unseen works by such a rich array of leading artists and designers in a single show. It is absolutely not to be missed.
